FUND COMMENTARY

AlphaNorth Growth Fund

June 2012

NAV
Series A (ANF010) $6.832
Series F (ANF011) $6.900

Fund Review Equities continued to struggle in June. Although the TSX Composite managed a small positive return in June, small and mid cap Canadian equities declined significantly. The TSX Composite returned 0.7% during the month. The Fund NAV decreased from $7.313 in May to $6.832 at the end of June. Please note that OSC rules do not allow us to report the performance for mutual funds prior to the completion of a one year history. Next month, we will begin reporting performance in percentage terms. Performance continued to be negatively impacted by the Fund's overweight position in the resource sectors which led the declines again in June. Current valuations reflect the expectation that economic growth and commodity prices will deteriorate significantly from current levels. We believe that this is an unlikely scenario and we anticipate a strong rebound in resource equities. The Fund's current overweight positioning in the resource sectors should enhance performance if our outlook is correct.

Valuations are currently unusually cheap relative to historical norms. This is especially significant in the context of the alternative asset classes such as fixed income investments. We are hopeful that the relationship resolves itself with materially higher equity prices. The sector mix is comprised of 2% in technology, 4% in health care, 18% in consumer discretionary, 5% in financials, 29% in energy and 42% in materials. The Fund is currently fully invested.

Outlook Equities continue to discount a bearish scenario which we believe is unlikely to play out. Although recent economic data reflects a modest slowing in growth, overall economic trends remain positive and we believe this slowdown will be short-lived. We expect Government policy initiatives will continue to be supportive of future growth in both North America and China. Equity fundamentals have continued to improve over the past few years. In fact, some valuation metrics are several standard deviations outside of historical norms towards the positive side. In addition, the balance sheets of many companies have continued to improve while competing investment products such as fixed income products offer only miniscule returns. However, the majority of investors continue to pile into these investments seemingly unaware of the risks or the potential loss of opportunity. We believe that risk/reward at the present time highly favours an investment strategy invested in equities. We are pleased to note that we have witnessed a rebound in many of our positions since month end as small cap equities have started the month of July on a more positive note. We expect small cap equities to initially lag larger cap equities until M&A and investor interest return.

Steven Palmer

Investment Strategy

The AlphaNorth Growth Fund (the "Fund") is an open-ended mutual fund focusing primarily on Canadian small to mid-capitalization equities, between $100 million and $5 billion market capitalization.

The Fund employs a similar style and investment methodology as the highly successful AlphaNorth Partners Fund. The Fund's investment objective is to maximize returns over the long term through superior selection of principally Canadian securities.

AlphaNorth believes that superior long term investment returns are achievable by exploiting inefficiencies in the Canadian small to medium-cap universe through careful security selection. Fundamental analysis of companies is used in combination with technical analysis techniques, which has proven to be successful, to assist in the timing of buy/sell decisions. The firm combines both a bottom-up and top-down strategy in the selection of investments offering the best risk/reward characteristics.
