Fund Review The Fund performance was 15.6% in July. This compares to the TSX Venture index return of 4.1% and the TSX Small Cap index return of 3.8%.

We believe that the negative sentiment in the commodity space remains overstated. Most future supply and demand estimates that we read about do not factor in production delays or exogenous shocks to supply, events that are not foreign to the industry. For example, in 2012 alone, unplanned losses to copper mine production amounted to over 1 million tonnes due to factors including unexpected closures, natural disasters, and ore grade problems. We anticipate that such factors will inevitably have a positive impact on commodity prices. Poor market conditions over the past few years and unexpected inflation of capital expenditures have already caused several companies to delay or curtail major mining projects. We believe that further supply challenges will improve imbalances in the long run and create an opportunity to step into those resource equities with the strongest fundamentals.

One of our top performing names this month was Mega Precious Metals (TSXV:MGP). The company recently added to its resource and increased the overall gold equivalent grade of its deposit by 30%. It continues to trade at a steep discount to peers and its further potential to expand the resource presents additional upside for the shares.

The current sector mix of the portfolio is comprised of 42% in base metals, 3% in coal, 25% in uranium, 4% in iron ore, 9% in precious metals, 13% in agriculture, and 3% in energy.

Outlook Contrary to popular opinion, the main driver of global growth is no longer China. Global growth over the next couple of years is expected to transition to the European Union and North America as they become the primary drivers. Although a Chinese slowdown was inevitable and expected, investors seem overly concerned about it. We believe that near term global growth will be dominated by significant improvements in the U.S. and the EU which will outweigh the lower growth expectations in China. The growth rate target for 2013 set by the Chinese government is 7.5% and analyst estimates have generally declined from 8%+ at the beginning of the year to the 7-7.5% range which recently prompted weakness in resource equities. We believe 7% will be the floor for growth in China this year as suggested by recent press comments by Chinese politicians. China has ample means to stimulate the economy to prevent growth rates from deteriorating further. IMF forecasts predict the U.S. and EU economies will grow by 2.7% and 0.9% respectively in 2014 as compared to growth of 1.7% and (0.6%) in 2013. These are the two largest components of global GDP representing almost 40% relative to China at a 15% weighting.

Although the broader equity markets have performed well more recently, we believe substantial upside remains. We expect the small and mid cap Canadian equity indices, which have lagged in terms of performance to this point, will soon participate in the bull market.

Steven Palmer

Investment Strategy

The AlphaNorth Resource Fund (the "Fund") is an open-ended mutual fund. The investment objective of the Fund is to generate strong returns by investing in Canadian resource companies that offer attractive risk-reward characteristics. The Fund invests primarily in junior and intermediate Canadian resource companies, and will evaluate industry and company fundamentals to evaluate investment opportunities which offer the most attractive risk-reward. AlphaNorth believes that superior long term investment returns are achievable by exploiting inefficiencies in the Canadian small to medium-cap universe through careful security selection. Fundamental analysis of companies is used in combination with technical analysis techniques, which has proven to be successful, to assist in the timing of buy/sell decisions. The firm combines both a bottom-up and top-down strategy in the selection of investments offering the best risk/reward characteristics.
