

Fund Review The Fund returned (6.1%) in October. In comparison, the TSX Venture index and TSX Total Return index returned 3.3% and 3.9% respectively during the month.

It has been a difficult month for several of the year's best performing Canadian stocks, namely Concordia Healthcare (TSX:CXR), Nobilis Health (TSX:NHC) and Valeant Pharmaceuticals (TSX:VRX). They were the latest targets of short seller attacks which resulted in dramatic declines. Fortunately, we were not investors in any of these companies. Although the Fund had no direct exposure to these companies, several of our positions were impacted by margin induced selling and negative sentiment resulting from the short attacks. We typically avoid these type of companies which rely on acquisitions for a large part of their growth. We prefer to invest in companies with a proprietary product or niche market advantage.

Despite positive announcements for several of our holdings, share prices were unrewarded as fundamentals remained irrelevant in the current dysfunctional small cap market environment. We remain encouraged by the progress of many of our holdings but are frustrated that their achievements have yet to be rewarded with higher share prices. Fundamentals can become irrelevant over short periods, but we know from our many years of experience investing in the Canadian small cap space that over the longer term, fundamentals will prevail.

Current sector allocations are as follows: 49% technology, 18% life sciences, 8% consumer products, 1% energy, 1% precious metals and 23% base metals.

Outlook We continue to hold an optimistic outlook for global growth. This is important for equities because periods of accelerating global growth are generally positive for equity returns. This is particularly important for Canadian stocks as they are more heavily weighted to the resource sectors which are closely tied to global growth. Several economic and strategy reports that we have read recently, highlight several factors supportive of accelerating global growth. These include the stimulus from low commodity prices and interest rates, high and improving PMI surveys, and a cyclical upturn from the latest inventory correction. We also point to improvements in a variety of meaningful indicators in China such as electricity output, freight volumes and passenger traffic as better indicators to gauge the strength of the Chinese economy as compared to the broad based China GDP which is widely followed.

In our portfolios, we have identified and selected a diverse range of unique high growth potential companies which we believe position us 'ahead of the pack' to experience the biggest gains as the junior market recovers. The best performing months of the year historically for the Canadian junior market are December, January and February.

Steven Palmer, CFA

Investment Strategy

The AlphaNorth Partners Fund Inc. (the "Fund") is a long-biased, small cap hedge fund which focuses primarily on Canadian companies. The Fund's investment objective is to maximize returns over the long term through superior selection of principally Canadian securities. AlphaNorth believes that superior long term investment returns are achievable by exploiting inefficiencies in the Canadian small cap universe through careful security selection on both a long and short basis. Fundamental analysis of companies is used in combination with technical analysis techniques, which has proven to be successful, to assist in the timing of buy/sell decisions. The firm combines both a bottom-up and top-down strategy in the selection of investments offering the best risk/reward characteristics.
