

Fund Review The Fund returned (3.9%) in December. In comparison, the TSX Venture index and TSX Total Return index returned 0.4% and (3.1%) respectively during the month.

Junior markets performed poorly in early December before recovering in the last two weeks of the year to increase the string of positive returns over that period to 26 consecutive years. This strong finish to the year quickly reversed course as investor fear over soft economic data and fears of slower growth in China gripped the equity market. The majority of technical indicators which we follow quickly became dramatically oversold in early January. There were few places to hide as even large cap equities and preferred shares declined.

The prospects for our core portfolio names generally declined over this period resulting in even more compelling risk/reward outlooks. It has been very frustrating that we continue to be in a period where company fundamentals are not the primary drivers of share price performance. However, we know from our many years of experience investing in the Canadian small cap space that over the longer term, the fundamentals will prevail.

We made few portfolio changes during the month. Current sector allocations are as follows: 47% technology, 19% life sciences, 10% consumer products, 1% energy, 1% precious metals and 22% base metals.

Outlook We recently held our 3rd Annual AlphaNorth Capital Conference where 43 companies presented to institutional fund managers, investment advisors and high net worth individuals. The majority of attendee companies were companies which we do not own in the portfolio. This provided a good source of new investment ideas for the fund and an opportunity to get overviews on many new companies and spend time with management. The conference also provided the opportunity to profile some of our portfolio holdings which will benefit from increased investor awareness and liquidity.

The year 2015 marked the fifth consecutive double digit negative year for Canadian small cap equities, taking the TSX Venture index down over 80% from the 2011 peak. We believe the risk/reward opportunity is highly skewed to the upside from current levels and we have positioned the portfolio to capitalize on the inevitable rebound in Canadian small cap equities over the coming months.

Steven Palmer, CFA
President and CEO

Investment Strategy

The AlphaNorth Partners Fund Inc. (the "Fund") is a long-biased, small cap hedge fund which focuses primarily on Canadian companies. The Fund's investment objective is to maximize returns over the long term through superior selection of principally Canadian securities. AlphaNorth believes that superior long term investment returns are achievable by exploiting inefficiencies in the Canadian small cap universe through careful security selection on both a long and short basis. Fundamental analysis of companies is used in combination with technical analysis techniques, which has proven to be successful, to assist in the timing of buy/sell decisions. The firm combines both a bottom-up and top-down strategy in the selection of investments offering the best risk/reward characteristics.
